

Supplementary Fig. 2. Numerical model of the nasal cavity constructed using CT scans of the baseline model. A 3-dimensional computational volume model was segmented from baseline CT. Approximately 5.2–5.3 million mesh elements consisting of both prism layers and the polyhedral mesh were generated. The mesh distribution in one representative plane is shown. CT, computed tomography.